

To whom it may concern:

8/14/2017

Jason Jewik possesses the rare combination of communication, creativity and technical talent that makes him an effective triple threat and a heavy hitter in game design, organization, and technical game development. He is forward thinking, patient, methodical and detail-oriented in his work.

As both a programmer and designer, he can translate his creative ability directly to the digital medium with his hard work ethic and keen intellect for game play. His insight and versatility allow him to to translate creative concepts into well-communicated execution and completed designs for our projects. He is proactive in mitigating risk and keeps both internal and external projects humming along.

Among the many people I have worked with in my years, Jason has been among the very best. Jason consistently demonstrated his value beyond his job description and always brought professionalism and a great disposition to the work place. Given the opportunity I would hire him without hesitation.

Sincerely,
